AMERICAN FASHIONS

(By Lillian Young.)

Even the mothers who dislike needlework could hardly fail to derive much pleasure in making such a dainty little party frock as the one shown in today's cut, and there is so little actual making in it, anyway, a little gathering at the neck, a couple of seams and a placket to be finished off, and the deed is almost done, except for little touches of trimmings.

This is designed for dotted, white net and is in the form of a very slim ple slip. The rounded neck shows a bit of fulness front and back, and the shoulder straps tie over each shoulder with blue ribbons. Both neck and armholes are finished with tiny plaited ruffles of net, and the skirt is trimmed with little Watteau rose wreaths applied on the outside and evenly distanced.

Beneath the little slip, another, is worn, made of chiffon. This is cut with short kimono sleeves that answer as gimp sleeves in the dress.

The arrangement of materials can be reversed if desired, using chiffon for the overdress and net for the under. Either plan can be followed without a doubt as to a most charming result.

HOMES FOR VICTIMS

Farm Women's Congress, in Session Here Proposes to Find Places for Homeless War Sufferers.

A movement to find homes for American farms for the women of Europe who are left widows by reason of the war was inaugurated by the executive board of the Oklahoma branch of the International Congress of Farm Women at a meeting here in the Carnegie library Monday afternoon.

Steps have already been taken to colonize men rendered homeless by the European war on American farms. Mrs. Carl C. Williams, chairman of the executive board, said that the organization merely hopes to get the movement started and have it taken up by other organizations. Infinite plans for taking up the work are to be formulated later.

A plan providing that all farm women's organizations affiliate with the International Congress of Farm Women was approved by the board. The bill for the creation of a national farm women's bureau was unanimously endorsed.
